Returns

1: Conall mac Aodha mhic Réamoinn -New Badge

"Argent, on a pellet a phoenix argent, a bordure embattled sable."

This badge is returned for redrawing. As depicted, the bordure is too thin, and the embattling too shallow. Crenellations on an embattled line or charge should be as deep as they are wide, for purposes of identifiability. If possible, the pellet and phoenix should also be drawn a bit larger, in order to aid identifiability.

2: Sadb ingen Chonchobair -New Badge (see Pends for household name)

Or, a dragon dormant sable, wings upraised addorsed, tail nowed.

Unfortunately, this badge must be returned for conflict with the device of Eutropius Drake, registered in January of 2018 (via Artemisia): Quarterly Or and argent, a dragon dormant sable. There is one Distinct Change for the difference in field, but none for nowing the tail, nor raising the wings.

Additionally, per the August 2018 LoAR Cover letter, “After the August 2018 LoAR, use of the term dormant will be discontinued, and armory submissions with asleep or unconscious animals will be returned. Charges in postures following the examples of Legh and Bossewell will be blazoned as couchant, head lowered and registered only if all identifying features are clearly visible in silhouette.”

3 : Sadb ingen Chonchobair -New Badge

4: Stoffel die Wafel - New Device (see Acceptances for name)

Argent, a brown hare rampant contourny proper maintaining a sword bendwise argent and a buckler Or.

Unfortunately, this device must be returned for violation of SENA A.3.B.1, which states that "A charge may only share a tincture with the field when both the charge and the field maintain identifiability. A charge which has minor details of the same color of the field is registerable, as long as identifiability is maintained." The argent sword appears wholly on the argent field, having no contrast at all. As maintained charges count for difference, they must also be identifiable, with at least some contrast.

5: Wolfgang von Westfalen -Resub Device (see Acceptances for name)

Argent, an eagle displayed and three equal-armed crosses in chief sable.

Unfortunately, this device must be returned for conflict with the arms of Prussia, "Argent, an eagle displayed sable crowned Or," and also with those of Manfred, King of Sicily "Argent, an eagle displayed sable," both of which are protected real-world armory. In both cases, there is one Distinct Change for the addition of the crosses. We apologize for not catching either of these conflicts when the device was returned the first time around.
